

Parental Wisdom Questionnaire

Answer the following questions as if your child is asking them. If you are unable to answer a question, feel free to move to the next one.

1. What strengths do you see in my life that will help me in marriage?

2. What weaknesses do you see in my life that will be a challenge for me to work on and overcome in my marriage?

3. If you could give me one piece of advice about marriage (based on what you did right or wrong), what would it be and why?

4. What is your best advice to me in the following areas as I embark on this new adventure called marriage? (Pick three to five that you would like to comment on.)

5. If you could keep just one memory, one experience of time together in all your married life, what would it be and why?

6. Is there anything special or meaningful to you that you would like us to include in the wedding ceremony?

7. How do you anticipate that my relationship with you, as my parents, will change now that I am marrying and establishing a new family and home?

8. How would you want us to handle holidays?

9. If God gives us children, how involved would you like to be in their lives?

10. Would you like us to drop in unannounced or call before visiting?

11. Do you have any specific expectations about where we attend church?

Answer these questions as if your future son-in-law or daughter in-law is asking them:

1. What are some qualities you see in me, or know about me, that make you think I am the right person for your son/daughter to marry?

2. What unique and personal advice would you give me about your son/daughter that will help me be the life partner he/she needs?

3. How would you like me to address you after we are married?
